To whom it may concern,

Being Koo Bing En's English tutor over the period of 7 years has been a hugely encouraging experience. Indeed, an unforgettable one if I may put it more aptly. Where many might see as problems, he simply looks at them as surmountable challenges that set his mind in overdrive mode. This trait has allowed him to overcome failures and hurdles in his academic pursuit.

As his tutor, I would describe him as a truly outstanding student who seeks to perform his best, not to impress any, but rather to strive for excellence. To him, good enough was never good enough, but only when he has given his all to achieve the best he could would he be satisfied.

Having had the opportunity to see him grow from a young child then progressively transitioning into a teenager made me convinced that Koo Bing En has what it takes to be a positive influence wherever he goes. While setbacks may occasionally dampen his spirit a little, he would never cave in and falter. Instead, remaining unwavering, he would quite often reflect on what he could work on to improve his grades. On numerous occasions, he would stay back after classes and approached me to discuss the difficulties he encountered in learning and humbly sought suggestions to cope and do better.

Good students are in abundance, however, exceptional one like Koo Bing En, there are far and few between. He has been such an inspirational figure in our language learning institution that many fellow classmates in fact look up to him as their role model. Despite his quiet confidence and remarkable learning ability, pride never arises in his interaction with teachers, nor his classmates. Quite contrary, he would take a lot of initiative to assist any who calls upon his for assistance and he would render such help unreservedly. Such humility endears him to many.

It is my sincere hope that whoever the recipient of this recommendation letter is would accept Koo Bing En as a student in your institution of higher learning. I assure you his resilience, humility, determination and motivation are qualities that would make him a very good student. Please kindly consider his application.
